SUN BEAMS

By WALTER M. BARRETT

Now that the new ice rink has become a reality we sincerely hope that those who charged that it was a waste of money and time will be sporting enough to admit they were wrong. Popularity of the rink has already been proven edspite the fact it has been in operation less than a week. Those who have so earnestly worked toward the rink's completion have earned the thanks which they should be given from other local interests. To one man, more than any or all others credit it due. He has given hours of his own time and has worked hard, often far into the night and this despite undue criticism, just to provide Truckee with its most outstanding winter sports facility. Last year he spent hours of work and worry in a fruitless attempt to build the ice rink, and when it was discovered that the efforts had been without immediate results, he was severely criticized. But this year has proven that those hours and dollars spent last year were not in vain and that all the work to date has been necessary in fulfillment of the hope for a good ice rink. We salute the man who made it possible and we refer to C. Edmunds.

Soon 1937 will be gone and the new year will arrive. Many will be making and breaking New Year resolutions. There is one resolution, however, which we all should make and keep and that is Trade at Home. If you can only make and keep that one promise to yourself, you will accomplish a splendid purpose and as 1939 prepares for its entrance to replace the old year you will be ready to make the same resolution without a second thought. Once you form the habit of home buying, you will find it is a good idea and one which will pay you big dividends.

We have heard complaints that the border checking and quarantine stations are not worthy of their cost. We have even been informed that efforts have been made to have them eliminated. This would be a bad move. Almost daily, we here in Truckee learn of the advantages to the state from the maintenance of the stations. Criminals of all description have been apprehended. Contaminated and diseased produce has been kept out of California and many other deeds unrecorded, but nevertheless imporant to the welfare of the state have been accomplished. As the most recent example we refer to the arrest this week of a young man charged with the theft of a car. After crossing every state between here and the eastern seaboard without question, the alert officers at the quarantine station sensed something amiss, summoned a highway patrolman and the suspect was taken into custody. We say leave the border checking stations and quarantine stations where they are. They serve a good purpose and are worthy of the comparatively small expense.

Can it be that we are getting so used to the filthy conditions of the streets and alleys, due to the lack of something or other on the part of some intangible something, that we are losing our initial vim and clean-up vigor? Someone said something about the drop of water wearing away stone, but it's hard to be that drop of water when the stone apparently is of the toughest granite. Maybe we should turn our efforts to something more pliable. It begins to appear that after all we are "just wasting printing."

Hove you been to church lately? The chances are more than even that your answer will be no, but nevertheless it's a godd idea and a few minutes on Sunday to show that we do appreciate the splendid influences of our churches would not only show this appreciation but give our pastors encouragement. Why not give it a trial this Sunday.

And now we wish you a very happy and prosperous New Year.

Father Only One Seriously Injured in Mishap On Highway

Five members of a Reno family escaped death norrowly Sunday night when the car in which they were returing home after a Christmas trip to Stockton left the highway near Floriston and plunged 200 feet into the Truckee river.

The driver of the car, Westley J. Bradsford, suffered a fractured leg and badly cut head, but his wife and three children escaped serious injuries.

Mrs. Bradsford held the heads of two of her children out of the water until passing motorists formed a human chain and brought the five back to the highway. It was necessary to raise the car to extricate Brandsford who was pinned under the wrecked machine.

The three boys are Westley, Jr., 16; Richard, 15, and Roland, 11.

The mishap occured shortly after 7 p. m. The Brandsfords were unable to tell the cause of the accident but observers believed the car skidded on the icy pavement on a turn.

ACCUSED CAR THIEF NABBED HERE BY HIGHWAY OFFICER

William Neuvonen, 25, of Athol, Mass., is being held pending trial in federal court on a charge of violating the Dyer Act following he arrest here last Sunday by Acting Sergeant C. E. McKeen of the state highway patrol.

Neuvonen is accused of stealing a 1937 model Oldsmobile from Raymond E. Levesque of Gardner, Mass., and driving it to California.

The man was suspected when he was stopped at the quarantine station near here and could not produce keys to open the trunk of the car for inspection. He had shorted the ignition, claiming he had lost his keys in Utah. Officer McKeen was called and questioned the suspect.

Insurance identification cards in the car which gave Levesque's name could not be identified by Neuvonen, who had told officers he was Levesque. Later, when he found he was not making good with his story, he said he could not remember any of the trip and said he had been doped.

Officers found probation papers in his clothing which indicated he had been arrested for failure to provide for a wife and minor child.

A pair of British Columbia license plates, found under the seat of the car, had been used in Fernley, Nev., for the purpose of obtaining gasoline without money, officers said.

NEW YEAR TO BE USHERED IN WITH PROGRAMS

Legion's Dance, Skating To Be Highlights Of Celebration

With any sort of a break at all from the weather man, Truckee will enjoy one of the most momentous New Year's Eve programs in its history as plans for celebrations are going forward.

Topping the list for entertainment will be the annual New Years dance sponsored by Truckee Post No. 439, American Legion.

The veterans have gone to a lot of trouble and spared no expense to make this dance overshadow all of the previous New Years celebrations.

With luck from the weather, the recently completed ice rink will be a mecca for skaters and winter sport enthusiasts.

A number of private parties and family reunions will add to the carnival spirit which is expected to prevail over the New Year's Day.

Improvments At Tahoe Inn Provide Cocktail Lounge

Formal Opening Of Lounge To Be Celebrated New Year's Eve

Declared to be one of the finest of its kind on Lake Tahoe, the new Tahoe Inn cocktail lounge will be formally opened on New Year's eve by the genial hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bechdolt at Tahoe City.

The Bechdolts have gone to considerable expense and effort to provide the year 'round lounge, but feel well rewarded with the results, the beautiful nicely decorated lounge being an outstanding attraction to patrons of the resort.

Dancing and entertainment will be provided for the opening Friday and a special dinner is being prepared.

The lounge occupies the space of the former buffet and barber shop and a new bar with booths to accomodate 24 people have been installed.

MONTANA HAS RINK TROUBLE AS WATER IS NOT AVAILABLE

Lack of foresight and a short hose are reported to be the reasons for a $2000 iceless skating rink in Butte, Montana.

A WPA project, the rink was constructed last summer but the flooding idea apparently did not seem to be of moment until this winter when the opening was at hand.

It then dawned that the nearest available fire plug was two blocks away and the city had no hose long enough to reach it. Until the situation is corrected it will remain bare of the much needed ice.

FIRE INSPECTOR TO MAKE STUDY HERE TO REDUCE RATES

In reply to a request from the local fire department, the board of fire underwriters of the Pacific have informed Chief N. F. Dolley that in the near future an inspector will be in Truckee to make a study of the local situation relative to a request that insurance rates be reduced.

The department, at a recent meeting, directed a letter to the board pointing out the many improvements made here during the past year which are expected to result in a material decrease in the present rates.

Local Judge Is Victim Of Thief; Loses Presents

We venture to predict that if one thief ever comes before Justice of the Peace C. E. Smith he will have "the book thrown at him."

He's the fellow who looted the local judge's car while it was parked momentarily in Reno Christmas eve.

..The judge, accompanied by Mrs. Smith, was en route to Carson City and parked for a few minutes on one of Reno's main streets. When they returned to the machine it was discovered that a suitcase, containing clothing belonging to Mrs. Smith and a number of Christmas presents for Carson relatives had been stolen.

..The judge's overcoat, laying near the suitcase was not molested, although a large box containing holly berry was gone.

MOTHER OF TRUCKEE PRINCIPAL EXPIRES ON CHRISTMAS DAY

Christmas Day was saddened for P. R. Nelson, principal of the local grammar school, by the sudden death of his mother, Mrs. Smith of Vallejo on that day.

Although she had not been in good health for some time, it is believed that the shock of the recent death of a small grandchild hastened her fatal illness.

Mrs. Smith was well known here where she had visited many times at the home of her son.

Funeral services were conducted at Vallejo on Monday. Local friends of Mr. Nelson convey their sincere sympathy.

STOP SIGNS MAY BE INSTALLED HERE TO AID CHILDREN

The advisability of installing signs at the intersections of Spring and Main Streets and High and Bridge streets to protect children who use the two slopes as a coasting ground for sleds and skiis, was discussed at this week's meeting of the chamber of commerce. A leter was directed to the board of supervisors asking that the signs be given consideration.

TRUCKEE'S RINK IS OPENED AFTER YEARS OF WORK

Skating Good As Big Bowl IS Opened To Public Christmas Eve

Work Being Done To Add To Facilities At New Local Rink

Truckee dream of years became a reality this week when the new ice rink was opened to the public and pronounced in excellent condition by Winter Sports Manager C. Edmunds, whose untiring efforts were largely responsible for the accomplishment.

Eacr night and day since Christmas, when the pond was opened, the ice has been crowded with skaters from many out of town centers as well as local enthusiasts.

While the rink does not meet the specifications set out when the project was proposed as a WPA job, it provides Truckee with probably the best out-door rink in the state and is expected to attract wide attention from skaters. The rink is sufficiently large for holding national or internation meets and situated as it is, ice is virtually assured throughout the season.

Workmen this week completed the installation of a roof over the warming room which has been arranged to provide accomodations for large numbers as well as make room for attendants and equipment.

A fence is being installed to keep out undesired skaters and prevent damage to the ice or equipment. It is proposed to add more equipment and do additional work on the rink as money is available, Edmunds said.

The public address system which was installed last year provides music for the skaters while a series of huge flood lights give the rink a real holiday atmosphere.

RATES SET

A schedule of rates for the patrons of Truckee's new ice rink was established at a meeing of the Truckee Outing Club this week and will be as follows:

General admission to rink 40c.

Rental on skates 35c.

Ten non-member tickets $3.

Outin g Club members admission 25c with membership card.

Special admission rates for the club members on week days, not including holidays 10 tickets $2.

HOURS TO SKATE

The rink will be open for use from 2 to 5 p. m. and from 7 to 10 p. m. daily, it was decided at the meeting.

NOBLE EXPERIMENT

Exactly 20 years ago this month America launched her Noble Experiment.

On that day, the eighteenth amendment was submitted to the states for their ratificaion. Little more than a year later, lawmakers of Nebraska, the 36th state, voted their approaal.

On January 16, 1920, the prohibition amendment became the law of the land.

Despite its high-born aims, the statute ushered in no shining milennium of sobriety. Lawlessness, racketeering, gangsterism, and flaming youth marked the decade of the 1920's as one of the most irresponsible cockeyed eras in the history of the country.

Even Phohibition's repeal, four years ago this motnh, hasn't completely cured America of the hangover it acquired then. The hi-jacking and racketeering which cam to full flower in that decade, proved too profitable a source of income for the underworld's rod carriers to forsake. With repeal, many of them settled down to prey on legitimate business, os Racket-buster Dewey's sensational graft investigations in New York have recently shown.

Yet despite its prodigious cost, the noble experiment taught a lesson well worth the learing—that a law is unenforceable when it hoists a "Stop" sign to block the wishes of the majority.

Some politicians, of course, haven't learned that lesson.

From now until next August, California voters will be asked to put their signatures to all matter of costly, unworkable initiatives or referendums. Let voters pause, probe and think twice before signing. There may be a catch.

AMERICA'S NEW CREDO!

Christmas baskets, plumply stocked to the brim, added a cheery brightness to the homes of thousands of California's needy this week.

This week the state, playing the role of provider for the aged and needy, it toting a bigger load than ever before. Private charities, as well, have waged admirably vigorous campaigns.

This reminds us that the word "charity" is beginning to sound like a distant chime from a fast-fading era. And so do its companion words. "the indigent" and "deserving poor." Relief is no longer called charity. It is, for better or worse—the point is often hotly debated!—called justice.

Definitely there is a new philosophy of relief abroad in America.

A course in this philosophy is one that we, as intelligent citizens, should thoroughly study. It is a costly philosophy. We bear its expense. We should determine how much of its costs we want, or can afford, to bear.

A course in this subject—which should be made compulsory—would unearth such worth-knowing facts as that the Nevada's county budget allowances for relief for 1937-38, are 60 per cent higher than last year with counties of the state averaging 50 per cent more. It would inform us that California has the most liberal old age pensions in the United States. And this is but another way of saying that California may soon prove to be a beckoning haven of refuge for the needy aged of all other states.

No one will flunk us if we fail to study up the new philosophy of relief. Not at all. But we shall most certainly be billed for its costs if we fail to do so!

Politically Speaking

By Jack Welter
United Press Staff Correspondent

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30.—(UP)—Lieut. Gov. Geoge J. Hatfield is gradually fading from the role of California's No. 1 political anathoma.

It isn't that another has usurped the "mystery man' status here heretofore has held, but Hatfield is on the verge of a final decision on his course for the 1938 campaign and as his courage and conviction grows, there are more manifestations of it.

Right now the former U. S. Attorney's friends will tell you that it's a four-to-one bet Hatfield will be in the gubernatorial race as an pponent of Gov. Frank F. Merriam nex t August.

Surety for this tip is the result of several polls Hatfield supporters have taken in various parts of the state. If the results are as represented, and there's no partiecular reason for not believing them, Hatfield could declare for governor and beat Merriam today.

One politician in Alameda showed Hatfield received a proportion of five of every nine votes cast, with the field including not only Merriam, but Robert Gordon Sproul, president of the University of California, and District Attorney Earl Warren as well.

In southern California, a similar straw vote showed Hatfield drawing five or six votes to every four for the governor.

Skeptics might ask why, if the lieutenant governor is so sure of his ground, doesn't he announce he intends to run for governor and get he campaign under way

The answer to this question is simple, although the reason for the simplicity is complicated, if that makes sense.

First of all, Hatfield's campaign, whatever office he goes after, will be handled by a man who has had considerable experience in running political shows. Furthermore, Hatfield himself is no novice in the matter of politics and campaigning.

And they both know that in all probability some of the boys who jumped the gun and started their campaigns with premature declarations of candidacy may find themselves behind the eight ball by the time August, 1938, is at hand.

Hatfield's strategist will tell you that the public is an admirer hard to hold over a period of ten months or a year. A ten-month campaign grows boring, not only to the campaigner, but also to those he seeks to impress.

So Hatfield's ampaign will begin probably during March with an announcement, followed by a short, hard stretch drive to the August primary.

There are several factors which conceivably might upset this applecart.

The lieutenant governor, as president of the senate, undoubtedly will turn an attentive ear to what his legislator friends—and his opponents—have to say. He will observe how

RUG MAKER AND FAITHFUL FRIEND

THE pup looks a bit bored, but he'll stand by until his master is ready to shut up shop and play. As for the master, a native of Ecuador, he's making one of those gorgeous rugs for which his region is famous—following the same colors and designs used by the early Andean weavers hundreds of years ago.

Textiles woven by the Indians of pre-Inca and Inca days were found in the ancient tombs in a remarkable state of preservation and are on display in museums visited by travelers taking the weekly cruises to Ecuador, Peru, and Chile. The ancient tapestries, rugs, and costumes reveal excellent workmanship and matchless skill in design and combination of colors. The textiles include cottons much finer in weave than our cotton today, woolen fabrics woven of fine vicuna wool so glossy it resembles heavy silk, brocaded materials, cottons exquisitely embroidered with wool, fine gauzes and voiles, crocheted and knitted fabrics, fine cloth hung with spangles of gold, copper and silver with an effect something like our sequins, and woven materials covered completely with bright-hued feathers—the tiny breast feathers of the humming bird were highly prized for this work because the smaller the feather, the finer the garment. Designs were usually geometrical or conventionalized and presented a daring combination of colors. Colors and designs generally were woven into the fabrics, but often were painted on the material by hand or printed. Tie-dyeing also was practiced. However, whatever the methods used, the ancient Peruvian textiles are unexcelled even by those found in the sarcophagi of Egypt.

INGELS REFUSES LICENSE PLATE ADVERTISING FOR SAN FRANCISCO FAIR

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30.—(UP)- The state department of motor vehicles' refusal to carry advertising material for the 1939 exposition here has irked officials of the show, judging from comments which followed Director Ray Ingel's negative decision.

Ingels said such action would be confusing, making it necessary to reduce size of the numerals and set a bad precedent. Furthermore, he said, southern Californians did not like the idea of publicizing the San Francisco Exposition on the plates.

"What does Mr. Ingels think this is—a county fair?" one official asked when informed of the director's decision.

"New York is going to publicize its fair and California is not," another commented, pointing to a photograph of a New York license plate carrying the slogan: "New York World's Fair 1939."

NEW POST OFFICE PLANS DISPLAYED FOR TAHOE FOLKS

TAHOE CITY, Dec. 30.— A new plan for replacing Tahoe's burned post office is gaining headway in town this week as plans are being displayed for the proposed new Tahoe community center in which, it is now contended, the post office should be located.

Approval of Supervisor Geisendorfer and Supervisor McFadden must await the recovery of the former, injurede in a recent automobile crash.

It is being favored by many who have seen the plans, although sentiment still remains in favor of erecting a building so that it will be easily accessible to the highway during both summer and winter.

A general mass meeting will be called soon, according to Mrs. George Bliss, chairman of the finance committee of the Tahoe Women's Club, which is assuming active supervision of the project. At that time, it is believed, a board of trustees will be elected. All are invited to attend.

STATE FAIR EXPECTED TO TAKE FIRST PLACE IN ENTIRE COUNTRY

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30.— (UP)— California's state fair, at present second among institutions of its kind in America, eventually mak take first place.

The prediction was offered in Chicago reecntly by Raymond A. Lee, secretary manager of the Minnesota fair which now holds first place, according to the California faid manager, Robert Muckler.

Muckler said at Washington he received much encouragement over the chances for federal assistance partially covering cost of constructing a new horse show arena. The building is expected to cost about $800,000.

POLITICALLY SPEAKING

the administration weathers the storm of a speial legislative session, due to onvene late in January.

But these considerations singularly, will not be absolutely foremost in his mind. Hatfield forces insist they are more concerned about the state of affair in the Democratic camp than they are in Merriam's potentialities.

Faced with an approximate 600,000 Democratic voting majority, any Republican candidate will have a tough time winning against an able, acceptable Bourbon nominee—provided the national picture doesn't change to greatly next year.

Thus, not only Hatfield, but a good mank other G. O. P. standard bearers will be watching hopefully for signs of the pendulum beginning to swing back in their direction via a drop in the Rooseveltian popularity They claim this backwash already has begun. The Democrats insist they are crazy. Crazy or not, the point seems will taken and might be one for any good Republican to consider at length before heedlessly declaring himeslf a candidate for office.

Hatfield's friends say he doesn't want to run for the U. S. Senate, and never has had the desire because he wants to stay in California. He recently built a new home on his Merced county ranch and he wants to live in it, they say.

Which is another angle, involving both the Merriam and the Roosevelt considerations. Despite Merriam's apparent confidence he'll be able to tame the special session, or weather any storm originating therefrom, one speculator remarked:

"Lock what a beating Roosevelt took during his special session. And he's a master.

"If he couldn't handle a Congress, how does Merriam figure he can control a special legislative session?"

This Week At The State Capitol

By JOHN ABBOTT
United Press Staff Correspondent

SACRAMENTO, Dec 30.-- (UP) -- Gov. Frank F. Merriam, who passed his 72nd birthday during a strenuous pre-Christmas week round of state affairs, added several subjects to the list under consideration for a special session of the legislature.

Protection of the state's tideland oil interests, particularly in the Wilmington area, remained as the paramount consideration, however, he reiterated.

Reapportionment of $100,000 for the Industrial Accident Commission is another topic under discussion, the governor admitted. He reduced the ariginal appropriation from $300,000 and the action is under court test.

Te governor also disclosed the legislature may be requested to submit to the people a onstitutional amendment validating the present administration setup.

A bill consolidating the relief commission with the state social welfare department was declared unconstitutional in an opinion by the attorney general. Possible court test might handicap relief agencies.

Replying to criticism from the National Lawyers Guild that he has been lax in administration of California's minimum wage law for women, through failure to fill vacancies on the state industrial welfare commission, the governor said:

"It has taken some time, because some of the people I have wanted to appoint to this commission have been hesitant to go on it.

"But I do not think anything has suffered. It is necessary, however, for the commission to meet and carry on its work."

Eleanor Banning MacFarland, Stuart O'Melveny and Fred Moyer Jordan, all of Los Angeles, were named to the board of regents of the University of California, filling vacancies created by the deaths of Mrs. Margaret Sartori, William Crocker, and Dr. John R. Haynes.

Petitions for executive clemency in behalf of John and Coke Brite, scheduled to hang on the Folsom prison gallows January 21 for a triple murder in Siskiyou county, went before the state advisory pardon board.

Claims for compensation through loss of work may be filed immediately in 62 offiies of the California State Employment Service, the Unemployment Reserves Commission announced.

January 3 is the first day on which claims, filed under terms of the state unemployment act which becomes effective then, are valid.

Benefit applicants must wait four weeks after requesting payments.

State Relief Administrator Harold E. Pomeroy reported the holiday relief picture for this year is vastly brighter than last, despite the current business recession.

With the state case load below on combined state and federal rolls will approach 132,000 compared with 49,000 he said, the total maintained 174,000 a year ago.

Backers of Raymond L. Haight, Los Angeles gubernatorial candidate, filed articles for "Haight of Government Incorporated."

The name "Haight in '38 Fusion Club" was reserved as a slogan. In the 1934 race, Haight entered the race on the Progressive-Commonwealth ticket, placing third.

Richarson Harrison, Folsom trusty, by whose testimony the state was aided materially in its trial of five convicts for the murder of Warden Clarenc A. Larkin, published the following letter in local papers:

"WANTED—A JOB:

"Convict ready for release on parole immediately on receipt of suitable employment; four years experience in a penal institution of somewhat questionably national reputation."

Harrison has derived a modest income during his term by writing for hardware trade magazines, He guaranteed "not to throw an employer down."

Sacramento city school board members prepared a nappeal to the state supreme court from an appellate court decision which held the board had no power to compel Charlotte Gabrelli, 10 year old pupil, to salute the United States flag in the classroom.

The girl and her father are members of Jehovah's Witnesses, a religious denomination whose tenets forbid allegiance to any other power than that of God.

BROILED LAMB CHOPS
WITH GREEN PEAS

Have lamb rib chops cut thick. Preheat broiling oven thoroughly. Place chops on broiling rack with top surface 3 inches below source of heat. If distance must be less, reduce temperature accordingly. Broil until nicely browned on one side and about half done. Season with salt and pepper, turn and let finish broiling on the second side. Serve with green peas in French fried potato baskets.
